Color Index by Jim Krause includes over 1,100 color combinations.

The eleven chapters cover Basics, Active, Quiet, Progressive, Rich, Muted, Culture/Era, Natural, Accent, Logo Ideas and Browser Safe. Within each chapter you will find one or more groups of colors or palettes. You can simply fan the page edges if you wish to quickly move to a given grouping of colors.

CMYK (cyan, magenta, yellow, black) and RGB (red, green, blue) formulas have been provided in ten chapters, with HEX (hexadecimal) and RGB values available in the eleventh. The HEX and CMYK might seem relevant outside of the fiber world, but if you wanted to take something from CMYK to HEX, the book and a website might assist you in getting there.

I had hoped that the book might help me in planning a weaving project that uses nine colors, so that I could change the palette to one more suitable to me (and make use of at least some of the cones of fiber I already have), but it was beyond me, and possibly the book.

While the book does contain lots of color combinations, I think the most that I ever saw was four. Perhaps I could choose a few pages, add in the colors I have at home, and TBD.

Dizzy Spinning group: things have seemed to get in the way for the spinners group these last few months. In January we will be starting to study and learn how to spin boucles and move into art and fantasy yarns. Come learn something new.
